The biosphere is changing in composition. Basically the universe is totally dissimilar to what it was even fifty years ago.

Biosphere Changes in Composition

Biosphere may be construed as the peripheral envelope of the planet wherein living things exist in their natural state. Man, flora, fauna do not exist in the biosphere, they are part of it acting and reacting every moment, shaping the biosphere. Our thoughts, feelings, emotions, imagination, assertions, actions all leave an imprint on the biosphere and affect everything else.

Due to man's transgression the biosphere is changing in composition. Basically the universe is totally dissimilar to what it was even fifty years ago.

Satsang has warned repeatedly about the effect of polluted action in thought, word and deed on the biosphere. The following quotes from what we have been writing for the last several years make man aware of his duty towards the biosphere. Biosphere is the life supporting system of the earth and if we refuse to heed we bring about our own destruction.

"Principles of nature are changing. Thereby science will have to begin to reconsider its theories about its functioning and begin to look at things only in terms of the law of Karma."

"Rate of movement of molecules also changes with catalyst such as temperature. In other words the rate of movement of molecules is changed permanently thereby changing the nature of certain substances. Only way to set things right is by performance of Agnihotra. Things have gone far wrong due to pollution."

"Things are happening in space that cannot be described because of limitation of speech."

"The lives of millions are in jeopardy due to pollution. Now, more than ever this summer more reports will be registered of myserious illnesses and recurring diseases previously thought wiped out. It will eventually reach epidemic proportions in the U.S. alone. In other countries there will be plagues, famines, natural disasters. The time has come. This is the beginning."

"Now you will find more diseases recurring that were previously cured. They will start recurring. Then new diseases as you have already seen will start appearing. Symptoms themselves will vary, causes will be unknown and cures will be difficult to find."

"Some diseases will be as simple as the common cold yet deadly. Some will have alarming symptoms yet will be short lived. They will come and go just as quickly. All these things will baffle the scientists. We need to take a closer view at our health and our environment."
(Satsang August 16, 1979)

"Circular air movements caused by pollution cause disturbance in microcosm. All of biosphere is affected. This leads to climate change and puts intense pressure on earth's core. Yajnya alleviates this."

"All of biophysical realm undergoes change. How can we cope with pollution? It is like the insect that becomes immune to insecticides. A point can be reached though where there is no more immunity but destruction."

"The change in climatic conditions is moving in counterclockwise direction. Much disturbance is caused in the atmospheric conditions due to the breakdown of ozone layer by pollution. Disease, incurable disease, suicides, mental breakdowns run rampant soon. Only way out is performance of Yajnya. Yajnya atmosphere is essential to happy life on the planet."
(Satsang September 1, 1977)

"Scientists! A domed shape causes danger. The bowels of the earth are collapsing. So much has been robbed from nature. Now it is reap as you sow. You will use these terms soon."

"Space appears to be closing more now and mental disorders will become more prevalent. It will be frightening for some."
(Satsang August 4, 1977)

Scientists beware! Do not fall into the pitfalls of ego. The scientist must become humble now. We will give them clues and lead them to what we want them to find. It is beautiful. Fantastic what science will come to know through us.

Science should go into new approach. Empirical radiology, physiology to be considered now. Space is infinitesimal. Why try to grasp that which cannot be grasped? Why try to understand that which cannot be understood, at least on an intellectual level? We must throw away all dogma and open new vistas for examination. The kingdom of heaven lies within us. There lies the secret of creation.

Grace descends upon the scientist. Scientists please note. The Grace of Almighty father has descended upon you. Be alert. Be intuitive and all of mankind benefits.

(Note: Yajnya (Homa) is a process given in the science of bioenergy, biogenetics, weather engineering, agriculture and medicine given through Vedas. Agnihotra is the smallest though basic form of Yajnya (Homa) based on one biorhythm of nature corresponding to sunrise sunset. Agnihotra process is performed in a copper pyramid of fixed shape and size. Agnihotra brings down to the planet nutrients from above the planet due to the turbulence of electricities that takes place exactly at the coordinate of the planet where the sun appears to rise. Agnihotra makes plants happy. Agnihotra fills the atmosphere with love.)

Agnihotra Ash Heals

A friend of mine was pouring boiling hot water from a pan into a sink. His left hand got in the way and was burnt badly. He ran cold water over the hand while I ran for the ghee (clarified butter from cow's milk) and Agnihotra ash. First I spread ghee over the burnt area and then dusted the area with Agnihotra ash. This seemed like a good procedure to me since I had heard ghee was used to make Agnihotra ash medicines. I thought it would make a good base for the Agnihotra ash to adhere to. I had no idea what the result would be.

The next day where once there was bright pink flesh and soreness the hand had returned to its normal color and there was no soreness or stiffness. My friend and I were amazed.

On another occasion a friend of mine scalded her hand when she accidentally put it in some steam while she was cooking. She was in much pain. I told her of my first experience with burns in which ghee and Agnihotra ash were used and suggested she try it. After running cold water over the hand we spread ghee on the scalded area and then dusted it with Agnihotra ash. Then we wrapped it.

My friend had burnt her finger badly with scalding hot water while visiting me. Minutes later the entire top of her finger blistered. The first aid book I have said to keep a burn in cool water. My friend filled a cup and submerged her finger, carrying her cup everywhere she went.

One hour later her finger was still throbbing with pain. I suggested she add Agnihotra ash to the water. Within five minutes the throbbing stopped, but there was still some pain. She continued to keep her finger in the cup and half an hour later all the pain was gone.

Thanks again Agnihotra.

Ancient Science of Homa Medicine

Juniper berries can be mashed or blended or mixed with a small part of Agnihotra ash. This can be used for diseases of intestines and colons.

Juniper berries in combination with Agnihotra ash and distilled water and honey made in Yajnya (Homa) atmosphere with certain prescribed Mantras is a potent medicine.

Agnihotra ash is what remains in the copper pyramid when incombustible incineration of organic materials used in Agnihotra process has taken place. This ash should be finely powdered and strained.

The flood of energies consisting of electricities and subtle energies that emanate from the sun to the coordinate of the planet where the sun appears to rise creates a turbulence in the atmosphere. At sunset this flood recedes. Agnihotra fire process is to be performed exactly at the timings of sunrise-sunset in a copper pyramid of fixed shape and size. By Agnihotra process the nutrition from higher ranges above the planet gets caught up in this turbulence and is thrust towards the copper pyramid. These subtle energies get locked up in the ash which becomes highly valuable as a medicine for man and fertilizer for plants.

Juniper Berries. Botanical name: Juniperus communis

Generally the pollen bearing male flowers are borne on different trees from those that bear fruit yielding female flowers. Sometimes we may find male and female flowers on the same tree.

American Indians drink a tea made from these berries as a cure for fever.

"Juniper berries tone the nerves and strengthen the brain."

Handbook of Alternatives To Chemical Medicine

"Juniper may be used for making a tea that is said to be good for kidney and bladder. It is said to fumigate sick rooms."

Health Food Dictionary

"Very effective as a tea for kidney, urinary and bladder trouble."
